Muslim Hands

Muslim Hands Pakistan Background

In terms of reach, our team in Pakistan has been able to provide aid and relief to people across many parts of the country. Our programmes in Pakistan span over several districts including Baluchistan, Punjab, Sindh, KPK and Kashmir. Muslim Hands Pakistan has established several schools throughout the country including in Islamabad, Wazirabad, Lahore and Quetta, which provide education to hundreds of orphan and needy children. Other work in the country includes feeding programmes, income generation schemes and safe water projects.

All of this would not be possible without the intervention of our donors who have time and time again provided the essential funds required to carry out this work. Our plans and strategy for the future require more intervention, more funds and more donors playing a vital role within the development of Pakistan.

The need for safe water

It is easy to forget how much we need safe water. This is the essential of life, which many are denied access to. For over a billion people, life's most pressing challenge is gaining easy access to safe, clean drinking water. Poor health due to unclean water prevents many from escaping the poverty trap.

"No intervention has greater overall impact upon national development and public health than the provision of safe drinking water and the proper disposal of human waste." (World Health Organisation)
